Layout & Design

The OS 315 is one of the best-balanced boats in its class, designed to seamlessly blend serious offshore capability with true cruising comfort.

On deck, the helm area is fully enclosed with a hardtop and windshield, providing excellent visibility and protection from the elements. The helm seating is designed for long runs, with companion seating that keeps guests engaged underway.

The cockpit is expansive and highly functional, whether you're fishing or entertaining. It features:

- Fold-away transom seating for flexibility
- Built-in livewell and insulated fish boxes
- Tackle storage and rod holders throughout
- Wide, uncluttered deck space for multiple anglers

This layout makes it equally at home chasing salmon offshore or hosting friends at anchor.

Below deck, the cabin is surprisingly spacious for a 31-footer. It's finished with high-quality materials and thoughtful design:

- Forward V-berth converts into a dinette, maximizing usable space
- Mid-cabin berth provides a second sleeping area
- Full galley with solid-surface counters, fridge, stove, and microwave
- Enclosed head with shower and modern fixtures

Altogether, the boat comfortably sleeps four and is well-suited for weekend trips or extended cruising.

Performance & Ride

Built on a deep-V hull with a 20° deadrise, the OS 315 is designed to handle real offshore conditions with confidence.

With twin Yamaha 300hp outboards, the boat delivers strong, responsive performance:

- Cruise speed around 25 knots (29 mph)
- Top speeds approaching 50 mph depending on load

What really sets this boat apart is how it performs in less-than-ideal conditions:

- Smooth, dry ride in chop thanks to the hull design
- Stable at rest—great for fishing or relaxing
- Tight, controlled handling even at higher speeds
- Efficient for its size, with reported fuel economy around 1.7–1.8 mpg at cruising speeds

This is a boat you can confidently run offshore when the weather turns, yet it's just as comfortable cruising with family.

Overall Feel

The OS 315 has a reputation for being a “do-it-all” offshore express—serious enough for anglers, but refined enough for cruising. It feels solid, well-built, and thoughtfully laid out, with a level of fit and finish that stands out in this size range.

Whether you're:

- Fishing offshore
- Exploring the coast
- Overnighting at anchor

...it delivers a rare combination of capability, comfort, and performance in a manageable size.
